REPERSICE

: Ecmorandum from ECI China Coordinator, Esms subject, dated G January 1966

- 1. The number of people in the Directorate of Intelligence who devote more than helf their time to work on Communist China has not theored significantly since January 1964. This level has been reintained despite general personnel cuts of about 10 percent during the same period. Each more of the time of other intelligence officers is now being devoted to the China problem, however, in order to belo neet the growing volume of urgent requirements and no becaused.
- 2. The following table shows changes in the number of analysis employed full time on China in the last two years. A detailed breakdown by Office is attached as Tab A.

	 	January 1865
Cther	113 143	138 · 143
Total DDI	263	281

3. Fortunately the problem has been relieved in part through the provision of 27 additional positions for work on Communict Chica as a supplement to the FY 1986 budget. We plan, furthermore, to review the present allocation of DDI personnel with the objective of shifting people from less argent tasks to work on Chica. We are also developing programs to attract personnel well qualified for work on Chica so that we can realize numbers benefit from positions that become available. In doing this we must find ways of overcoming the difficulties posed by the scarcity of trained Chica tands and their reluctonce to enter into Government service.

- 4. A basic problem is that our knowledge of Communist China in the military, economic, and political fields is far less than what we know about other denied areas, such as the foviet Union. We therefore need to supplement our analytical attack on contemporary developments with a nuch broader research effort to build up our store of basic information in all relevant areas of knowledge pertaining to China.
- 5. Tab B in a projection of the personnel which will be needed by the Directorate of Intelligence to meet minimum requirements on China through 1970. As you know, the long-term personnel requirements for NPIC are among the matters now under intensive study by the Joint Imagery Interpretation Review Group. I prefer, therefore, not to submit a formal projection of MPIC's personnel requirements on China until I have had an opportunity to review the matter thoroughly and consider the findings of the JIEG study. We are now developing our budget needs for 1958 and supplemental needs for 1957, and China requirements will be emphasized in both.

- 1/ The net reduction of three in ORR was caused principally by the need to divert analysts in the Economic Research Area to support of Victuam, South and Southeast Asia.
- 2/ One individual is excluded here because his "action" duties on China have largely removed him from "research".
- 2/ This small reduction was caused by an overall T/O cut of 15 positions FBIS had to take in mid-1964.
- 4/ Similarly as overall T/O cut forced this reduction on OCR.

3. Fortunately the problem has been relieved in part through the provision of [illeg] additional positions for work on Communist China as a supplement to the FY 1966 budget. We plan, furthermore, to review the present allocation of DDI personnel with the objective of shifting people from less urgent tasks to work on China. We are also developing programs to attract personnel well qualified for work on China so that we can realize maximum benefit from positions that become available. In doing this we must find ways of overcoming the difficulties posed by the scarcity of trained China hands and their reluctance to enter into Government service.

- 4. A basic problem is that our knowledge of Communist China in the military, economic, and political fields is far less than what we know about other denied areas, such as the Soviet Union. We therefore need to supplement our analytical attack on contemporary developments with a much broader research effort to build up our store of basic information in all relevant areas of knowledge pertaining to China.
